Why we're needed

Life is complicated. Sometimes people encounter challenges and problems they don't know how to deal with, and they need help to overcome them.

We help people find a way forward

We aim to provide the advice people need for the problems they face and improve the policies and practices that affect people's lives.

One of our greatest strengths is the flexibility to deal with most issues people come to us with - like problem debt, consumer issues and negotiating changes to benefits eligibility.

We're here to help everyone who needs support. This includes some of those most in need - the clients we help locally are five times as likely to live on low income than an average member of the England and Wales population.

Through our daily interaction with clients, we have a credible understanding of local needs. We use this insight to tailor our services and improve policies and practices locally.

Putting our clients' needs at the heart of decision-making means we also work in partnership, making it easier for clients to access relevant services.

The difference this makes

Whoever you are, whatever your problem and however you access our service, we are just as likely to solve your problem.

78% said that they couldn't have solved their problem without us. 95% say they would recommend our service.

Achieving these outcomes has a positive impact on our clients' lives and for society. It also prevents detriment occurring or escalating.

Our value to society in 17/18*

- £727,401 saved at least by government and public services
- £4,174,504 in estimated wider social and economic and social value to society
- £4,296,499 benefit to individuals in Eastbourne from advice
- £17.67 benefit to our clients for every £1 invested in our local service

All of this demonstrates that we are an essential local service, now and in the future.
